ICIS 2013 Regional User Conferences

By Michelle Mitchell, ICIS Communications Coordinator

Coming to a Region near You!

Are you interested in learning more about new ICIS services and initiatives? Would you like the opportunity to participate in discussions with other ICIS members, exploring how the ICIS advantage can be leveraged in the ever-changing world of technology and data? Well, the wait is over... an ICIS User Conference is coming to a region near you!

The Conferences

Back by popular demand, ICIS is preparing a series of User Conferences to emphasize “Collaboration in Action”. This time around ICIS is doing things a little bit differently. For 2013, ICIS will be presenting Regional User Conferences throughout the Province, enabling participation from those who may not be able to travel farther distances. Locations will include Kelowna (May 3rd) and are being considered for Northern BC (Spring), the Lower Mainland (Fall), and Vancouver Island (Fall).

Each event will provide members with the opportunity to learn more about ongoing and future ICIS initiatives, including how members will benefit from these new opportunities. As well, those in attendance will participate in a Collaboration in Action Workshop, which will address how ICIS may be able to facilitate various collaborative opportunities. The events will be also be a great way to connect with the ICIS Team and other ICIS members.

Here's Where You Come In

The first conference will be held in conjunction with the Interior GIS User Group conference in Kelowna on May 3rd. Now for the interactive portion: We have created a survey to determine where YOU would like the User Conferences to be held. Simply Click here and fill out our short survey to help us determine the best locations in Northern BC, the Lower Mainland, and Vancouver Island. We want to hear from you, our members, to ensure we choose a location that is convenient for attendees.
